COVID-19 Update

Complete Controls Inc. is fully committed to supporting the health and safety our employees and continued operation of our customers. As the global situation evolves, we have been certain to take advice from government and health officials to adapt our response towards the outbreak. We are enacting the appropriate actions regarding sanitization, limiting access to our facility, and encouraging any sick or vulnerable employee to stay at home. Additionally, steps are being taken to work virtually whenever possible.

Complete Controls Inc. will remain in operation, government permitting, in an effort to assist an increase in demand of many products and services used to address the pandemic. We are ready to confront the problems ahead with the confidence from our experience in the past. If your manufacturing process or equipment needs devotion our team of engineers are ready to assist as we work towards operational resilience through these difficult times.

Our approach will be monitored and updated as new information becomes available. Complete Controls' leadership is committed to responding to the developing global situation to meet the demands of our customer's businesses and employees.
